ALDAM STOCKMANSCHOOL 2012

A word from the CONVENER: Dr Michael Bradfield

(http://www.english.simmentaler.co.za/wp-content/uploads/2012/07/stockmans_school_2012_eng.pdf)

The 2012 Stockman's school will again host some of the very best cattle breeding experts in the Industry. The three International speakers are arguably the leaders in their respective countries. Professor Steve Miller has a CV that would be the envy of any cattle breeding geneticist/consultant and is also the consultant to Lee Leachman whom made such a positive impression last year. Ian Locke is a hands-on practical large beef producer and is an industry leader in Australia and Dr Roger Hunsley from the USA needs no introduction. Combine these speakers with the eighteen local speakers and you have the very best school in Africa. In fact, world leader's in the beef industry are on record as saying that this is the best school that they have ever attended in the world.

Our sponsors have remained loyal to us over the many years that we have worked together and have not hesitated to assist where necessary. This year we also started a Stockman school for beginner farmers (targeting all demographic groups). We need to be proactive and assist producers entering the market to run a successful enterprise. The Stockman school for commercial producers should attract producers (Commercial, Stud and Industry role players) whom are already in the beef business whilst the school for beginner farmers will attract new entrants. As usual there is an early bird registration and all aspects of a beef breeding enterprise are covered with numerous practical and plenary sessions.

PRESTASIE TOETSING

NEW Report – “Completeness of Performance”

The Simmentaler and Simbra Society is looking into implementing a new report for Simmentaler and Simbra made available by BREEDPLAN. The “Completeness of Performance” report provides a summary of the information that the breeder has submitted to the Society, with a range of statistics being provided within the report such as details of the pedigree, weight, carcass, birth and fertility information that has been recorded. The report aims to more routinely allow members of Performance Testing to double check that the performance information that they have collected on their animals has been recorded with the Society, while importantly also enabling members to identify areas in which additional performance information could potentially be recorded on their animals. One of the key factors underpinning the accuracy of EBVs is the quantity of performance information that has been recorded with the Society and these reports allow members to assess how “complete” the information is for their animals. The “Completeness of Performance” star rating is an extension of the report with the star rating being calculated based on the proportion of calves within the herd born in a fixed 5 year period that have performance recorded for each trait.

Different criteria are used within each individual breed depending on the traits for which EBVs are calculated within the breed. Each herd receives a star rating on a 0 – 5 scale (including half stars) that assesses the “completeness” of their performance information. Herds with a star rating of “5” are considered to be gold standard and are recording “complete” performance information for all traits of which EBVs are available.
